Tuesday 5th March 2013, 12.30 -14.00
Andrew Cormack Seminar Room, Saïd Business School

ABSTRACT:

We discuss recent empirical and theoretical work that addresses the study of interactions among world countries from a complex-network perspective.

We ask three main questions:

- i) What is the topological structure of macroeconomic networks?
- ii) Are there simple models that can explain that structure?
- iii) Can the topology of macroeconomic networks explain macroeconomic dynamics?
